SPENCER GRAY / LUCIDSESH

INTERIOR WEATHER

DIGITAL ART / MIDJOURNEY EXPLORATIONS

A COMPANION TO NO FIXED PATH / 04

What if it could look like this?

Spencer describes LSD as helping him believe in himself and choose a creative path without fear. This book looks at another expression of that freedom: the permission to imagine.

Eyes become landscapes. Plants acquire personalities. Rooms open into places that could not exist. Selected from his digital and Midjourney collections, these images trace recurring visual interests rather than a literal account of events.

An interior weather, given a form.

MANY WAYS TO SEE

THE EYE AS LANDSCAPE

A FLOWER LOOKS BACK

COLOR, GROWING

A FRIENDLY FORM

A SMALL INVENTED GARDEN

BOTANICAL IMPOSSIBILITY

A SMALL IMPOSSIBLE EMBLEM

ANOTHER BOTANICAL WORLD

AN INVENTED INTERIOR

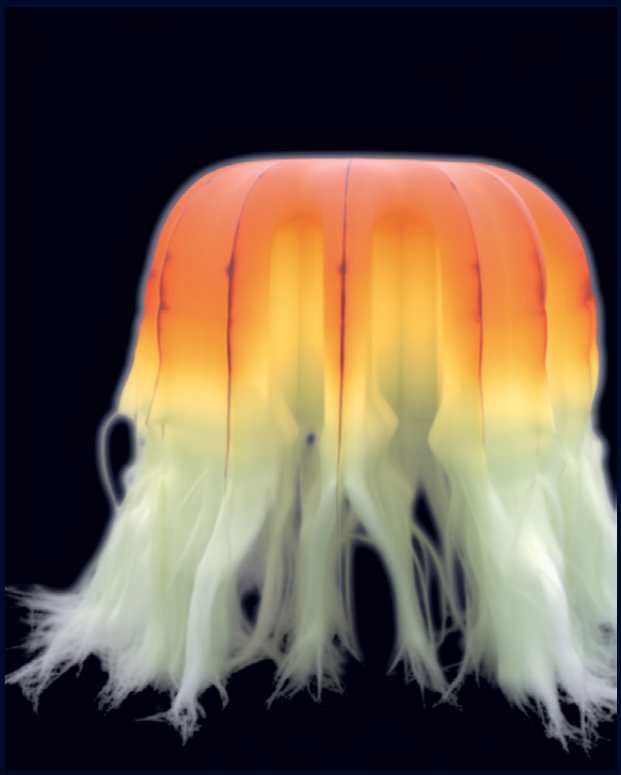

A PLACE FOR SOLITUDE

THE DOOR REMAINS OPEN

DIGITAL STUDY / 13

SOMETHING SOFTENS

WAVES THROUGH A PORTRAIT

A FACE IN PIECES

A COLOR CLIMATE

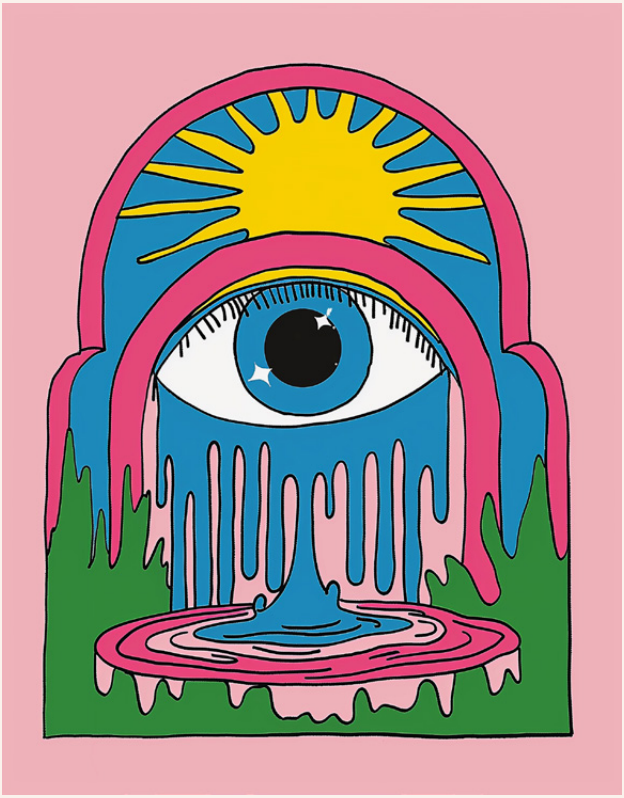

A LANDSCAPE REASSEMBLED

A GLITCH IN THE HORIZON

The world can begin as a question.

A generated image is an experiment in direction: a way of testing a color, a setting, a symbol, or an impossible combination. The selection is part of the work.
