SPENCER GRAY / PERSONAL ARCHIVE

OPEN

INVITATION

FRIENDS / FESTIVALS / CALIFORNIA
2017-2018

YES, AND THEN WHAT?

An invitation to try something.
To go somewhere.
To remain open.

A beautiful time to say yes.

I was trying new things and staying open to new experiences. Somewhere along the way, I met some of my favorite humans alive.

These pages follow the part of that time I can still see: the drive, the waiting, a place beside a friend, the light after dark.

The photographs do not give every detail back. They give me a feeling of being available to life.

A SEQUENCE OF MEMORIES / 2017–2018
NOT A DAY-BY-DAY ITINERARY

Leave room for the day.

THE DRIVE SOUTH / 2018 / The car, packed for the road

THE DRIVE SOUTH / 2018 / Through the windshield

Sea air before the next thing.

OCEANSIDE / Sea air at the Oceanside pier

SAN DIEGO / APRIL 2018 / The path beside the ocean

Stay weird in colored light / A room full of references

No perfect plan required.

Some adventures begin with a destination. Others begin with being willing to go.

There is room in these pictures for the part that was not planned.

A place in the crowd.

CAMP FLOG GNAW / 2017 / Welcome to Camp Flog Gnaw

Carnival lettering in daylight / A stage beyond the crowd

CAMP FLOG GNAW / 2017 / Friends beside the festival wall

CAMP FLOG GNAW / 2017 / Together after dark

COMPLEXCON / 2017 / A shared portrait at ComplexCon

COMPLEXCON / 2017 / A portrait in a Polaroid

Be groovy or leave / A small sign of peace

FRIENDS / CALIFORNIA ARCHIVE / Friends against a blue wall

SAN DIEGO ARCHIVE / 2017 / A photographed keepsake

Some of my favorite humans alive.

Trying something new can be as small as saying yes.

A place becomes more than a place when I remember who was beside me.

All day.
All of us.

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Three friends in a bright frame

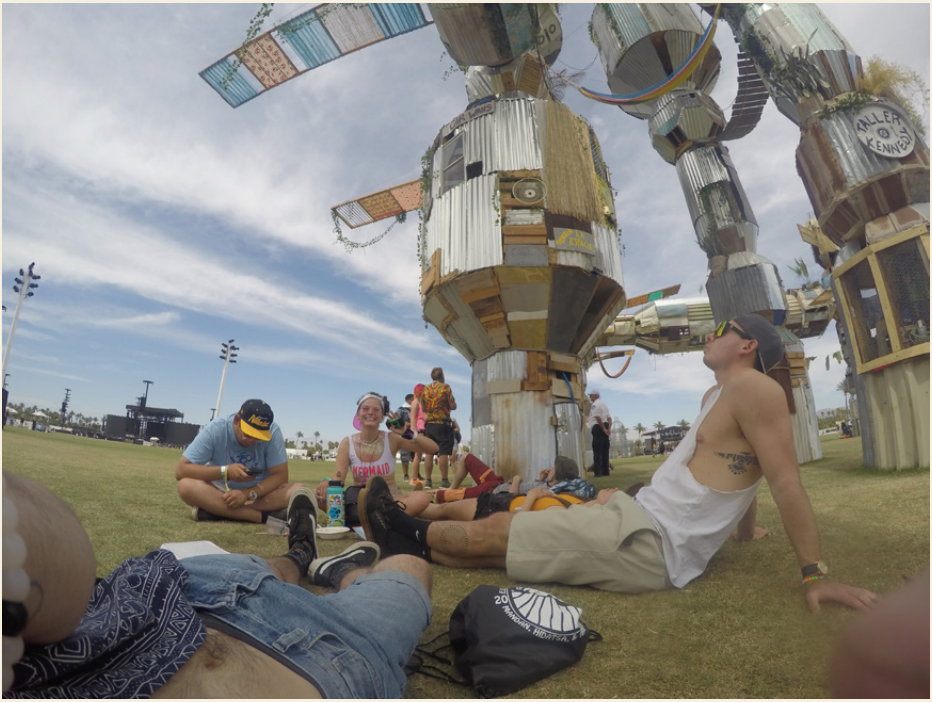

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / An opening into the festival field

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Two friends beneath the wheel

FESTIVAL ARCHIVE / 2018 / Four friends walking into the day

COACHELLA / 2018 / A place to sit in the shade

COACHELLA / 2018 / Color overhead

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Four friends and a pink parasol

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / A seat, a snack, a thumbs-up

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / A shared portrait beneath the canopy

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Three friends in the afternoon sun

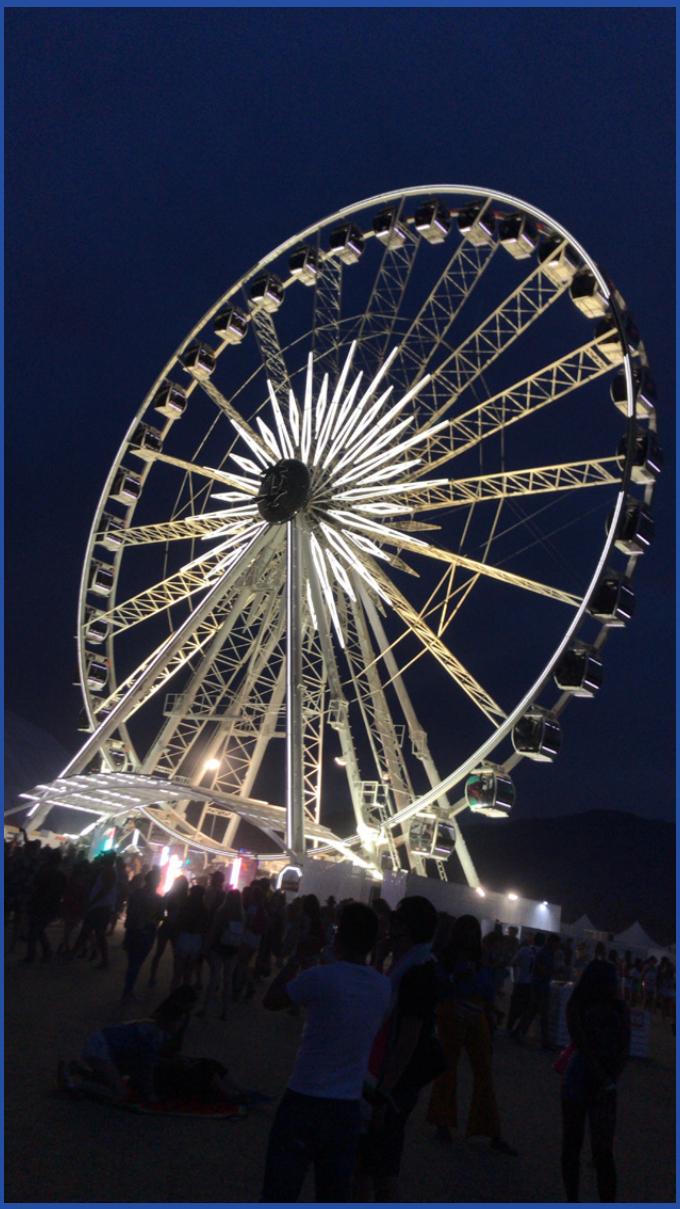

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / A whole group, a patch of grass

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Hands raised toward the stage

COACHELLA / 2018 / The field at sunset

COACHELLA / 2018 / The wheel after dark

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / A balloon lifted into the night

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Friends gathered in the glow

INDIO / APRIL 2018 / Three friends in green light

The way it felt.

SAN DIEGO / APRIL 2018 / Palms above San Diego

SAN DIEGO / APRIL 2018 / Three faces in colored light

SAN DIEGO / APRIL 2018 / White glasses and a potted palm

SAN DIEGO / APRIL 2018 / Feet up in a courtyard hammock

A KEEPSAKE FROM THE ARCHIVE / A black-and-white keepsake

A KEEPSAKE FROM THE ARCHIVE / Three faces in a Polaroid

A beautiful time in my life.

I was trying things.
I was staying open.

And the people I met became the part of those experiences I would carry with me.

Some of it stays as light.

Most of it stays as people.

A black-and-white keepsake / Three faces in a Polaroid

Keep the invitation open.

Photographs from Spencer Gray's personal archive, including portraits of Spencer and friends. Individual camera credits are not established; people remain unnamed.

The narrative adapts Spencer's account of a beautiful period of trying new things, staying open to new experiences, and meeting some of his favorite humans. First-person passages are editorial adaptations, not verbatim diary entries.

The selected archive centers on 2017–2018. Festival names follow the source albums; metadata may record a save or import rather than the moment pictured. The sequence is a memory, not a strict itinerary.

Creative direction, selection, sequencing and layout developed with Codex. Full source provenance is retained in the editable production package.

FIRST EDITION / OCTOBER 2026
48 PAGES / 41 ARCHIVE PHOTOGRAPHS

THE NEXT ADVENTURE IS STILL OPEN

OPEN INVITATION

SPENCER GRAY
NO-FIXED-PATH.VERCEL.APP/ZINES/OPEN-INVITATION